CONCERNING UNCLE JOE.

"You have got to take the tariff," says our jolly Uncle Joe;
"Gulp it down, look, bob and sinker, for the trusts must have the dough. And the trusts will always cough up for the trusty G. O. P.
When the houses need the money—that's the secret, don't you see?"
And the trusts in drugs and wool and cotton, oil and rope,
Say that Uncle Joe's a dandy with the proper kind of dope.
"I insist," says Uncle Joseph, "that the Aldrich tariff law,
Is the top-notch legislation, quite the best you ever saw.
And the men who dare deny it are but traitors deep at heart
Who should have in legislation not the smallest kind of part."
And the trusts in tin and shoes, rubber, meat and rotten booze,
Say that Uncle Joe's a dandy with the sanest kind of views.
"All these men," says Uncle Joseph, as he chews his rank cigar,
"I denounce as demagogic, and we all know who they are.
They are enemies of progress, wild fanatics, brainless clumps,
And we purpose seeing 'em that they get their proper bumps."
And the trusts in sugar, brass, lumber, copper, tar and glass,
Say that Uncle Joe's a dandy with a talk that's real high class.
"Those insurgents are muckrakers," says our jolly Uncle Joe,
"And are Democrats at bottom, as each patriot should know.
They would ruin our institutions, wreck the good old ship of state,
By destroying our old party for which trusts still pay the freight."
And the trusts in grain and bread, wire, coke, and coal and lead,
Say that Uncle Joe's a dandy with a mighty level head.

Attention, Winchester.

No sooner had we arrived in the town than we noticed a crowd surging down the main street, running, milling, yelling and shouting. Naturally we were curious to know the cause of the excitement, but it was not until we had accosted several excited citizens that we learned the facts.
"Why," gasped one hurrying man as he paused and caught his breath while satisfying our curiosity, "we've just got a dispatch from Washington giving the returns of the census of this here town, and now we are going to lynch the traitor that took the census."

Will Make Lincoln Figure For the Capitol.

The bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln, which James B. Speed will give to the State of Kentucky, is to be molded by America's most famous sculptor, A. Weinman, of New York, the favorite pupil of St. Gaudens. Mr. Weinman and F. M. Sackett, who engaged Mr. Weinman to do the work as the representative of Mr. Speed, will meet in Frankfort soon so that Mr. Weinman can get a definite idea of the lights and surroundings of the statue when it is placed in the rotunda of Kentucky's new capitol building.

Mr. Weinman will then return to New York, and begin the task of making the drawings for the $15,000 statue, which will be the finest of its kind in the country. Mr. Sackett expects to receive the drawings by fall. Mr. Weinman has promised the model by the first of next year, and the finished statue by October 1911.

The statue is to be full length, and of heroic size. It will stand in the center of the rotunda of the capitol. Mr. Weinman is the sculptor who modeled the sitting statue of Lincoln, which is in the town square at Hodgenville.

There is a pretty story of sentiment and civic pride back of the motive which prompted Mr. Speed to give the statue to Kentucky. The Speed family is one of the oldest in the State. James Speed, an uncle of J. B. Speed, was Lincoln's Attorney General, and Josiah Speed, another uncle, was one of President Lincoln's closest intimates. On numerous occasions President Lincoln visited at the homes of the Speeds in Kentucky.

When Gov. Willson began to cast about for a man who would give Kentucky a statue of its most famous son, he thought of Mr. Speed, and his connection with the Lincoln family. It took but a mention of the plans for Mr. Speed to say that he would gladly give the statue to Kentucky. Gov. Willson then accepted the promised gift on behalf of the Capital Commission. Mr. Sackett was then sent to New York, where he made arrangements for the work.

McCreary Will Make The Race.

Convinced that the great majority of the Democrats of Kentucky earnestly desire that he re-enter the political arena and lead a reunited and harmonious party in the next campaign for the redemption of the State from Republican rule, former Senator James B. McCreary has announced his active candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

It has been repeatedly rumored within the past few months that he would make this race, but not until he felt that the rank and file of his party desired him to come out from the retirement of private life did Senator McCreary finally determine to respond to the call of his friends. When he laid down the Senatorial toga two years ago it was with the expressed determination never again to seek political preferment.

ADDRESS TO DEMOCRATS.

"To the Democrats of Kentucky: I have received so many letters requesting me to announce that I am a candidate for Governor and so many Democrats have in person said to me that if I am nominated I will have the unanimous support of the Democrats of Kentucky, and such a large number of newspapers have published editorials suggesting and endorsing me as a proper candidate for Governor that I have decided to announce that I am a candidate for Governor subject to the action of the Democratic party."

"I believe the party which has honored me so often and to which I have belonged all my life and whose principles I have ever advocated and upheld is entitled to my best services whenever needed or demanded. I have always been in favor of the straight, pure Democracy, law and order, honesty and economy in public administration and educational advancement, and my record and my efforts to serve the people faithfully and efficiently I hope and believe are well known to the people of Kentucky. At the proper time I shall be pleased to make speeches in behalf of Democratic principles and Democratic Government and Democratic victory in every part of the State and in every county if desired, and I will be very grateful for the support of my brother Democrats."

"JAMES B. MCCREARY."

It has been two years since Senator McCreary retired as United States Senator from Kentucky, after a career of political brilliance and service which is almost coincident with the history of the Commonwealth for nearly the last half century. A gallant Confederate Colonel of cavalry, Speaker of the Kentucky Legislature twice; six times in Congress from his district and once Governor.

Nicholas Advocate Sold.

The Nicholas Advocate, which was founded at Carlisle in 1905 by the late Col. John W. Powling, has been sold by the estate to James H. Tilton. Mr. Tilton has assumed control as editor and proprietor. Leslie S. Hughes, who has been the editor of the Advocate since the death of Col. Powling, will continue to be connected with the office. We wish the new management much success.

Noted Convicts Refused Parole.

Paroles were refused four noted convicts now in the Frankfort penitentiary at a meeting of the Prison Commission last week. The cases in which refusal was had were: Tom White and Curt Jett, convicted jointly of two murders in Breathitt county; Henry Youtsey, convicted of complicity in the murder of William Goebel; Judge C. E. Boone, convicted of peculations from the State while employed in the Auditor's office as assistant auditor and claim clerk. The refusal of these applications means that the convicts will have to wait for three months before their cases can be considered again. It is hardly probable that they will be taken up within the next year, as the Prison Commission has indicated that it will not parole either of the four men until some time has passed, if at all.

Chinks Boycott the Products of America.

A boycott of American goods and merchants, on similar lines to the one which several years ago caused millions of dollars damage to American trade in China, has been proclaimed in response to complaints of the treatment of Chinese in America. The specific cause of complaint on this occasion is the objection of the Chinese of San Francisco to the detention sheds on Angel Island in San Francisco bay. They have been endeavoring for some time to have them removed to San Francisco proper in order to secure better treatment for arriving Chinese.

The boycott is proclaimed by the Chinese self-government society of Canton, an organization conducting a propaganda of "China for the Chinese," and for governmental reform, to which Chinese in San Francisco appealed by letter.

An appeal has been issued to Chinese abroad, asking them to co-operate in the boycott.

Johnson Must Fight.

"Jack Johnson will have to fight Langford or get out of this country," is the latest statement from Joseph Woodman, Langford's manager. Woodman, who is in New York, declares that a forfeit and side bet of $20,000 will be posted inside of the next five days in behalf of Langford, and adds that unless Johnson covers the money binding the match inside of twenty days Langford will lay claim to his title.

Joseph Hughes, a wealthy member of the Fairmount Athletic Club, is Langford's backer. He asserts his confidence that Langford can whip the champion in twenty rounds or less.

Gets New Job.

Col. Mott Ayres, of Fulton, Ky., Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, was elected Employment Agent, under the new parole law, at the last meeting of the Prison Commission. The position was created at the last session of the Legislature, and pays $1,200 per year. The duties of the agent are to keep in touch with paroled convicts and obtain employment for convicts who deserve paroles under the law. There were many applicants for the place.

Col. Ayres is well known here, his wife being formerly Miss Mary Miller Coleman, daughter of Geo. E. Coleman, of this city.

To Stop Speeding.

County Judge Scott, of Lexington, has announced that he would put a stop to automobile "scorching" on the pikes leading out of Lexington, if he had to plant a "dead Irishman" every quarter of a mile on the pikes.

He was on the point of instructing Road Supervisor Estill to get ready to construct the "dead Irishmen" when in a conference with Mayor Skain it was decided that an ordinance be prepared for submission to the General Council, providing that all chauffeurs and auto owners be compelled to register with City Clerk, give bond and prove their qualifications to operate an auto. This proposed ordinance, it is believed, will solve the problem by making every auto driver responsible.

Vreeland Resigns.

John W. Vreeland, of Louisville, General Manager of the Farmers Home Journal, has resigned as member of the Democratic State Executive Committee from the Fifth Congressional District, having accepted a city office. Mr. Vreeland has served continuously on the State General and Executive Committees for the past fourteen years.

Georgia Peaches by the Train-load.

According to figures compiled by the railroads, this year will show the greatest movement of peaches from the State of Georgia in the history of the State. While the total figures for the movement during the year 1910 are not yet available, and will not be until the middle of August, 5,840 cars have already been forwarded, and it is estimated that the total movement will exceed 6,000 cars, thereby exceeding by from 1,000 to 1,800 cars the estimates placed on the movement by the Georgia Peach Growers' Association.

This movement cannot be said to be anything like the total production of the State, because of the fact that large canneries have sprung up at almost all points within the district of production. Necessarily the canners are consuming large quantities of the local production, with the result that Georgia canned peaches are also reaching an enviable place as compared with other peach producing sections of the United States.

The movement of peaches from the State of Georgia during the past six years has been as follows:

19044,847 cars	19071,221 cars
19053,200 cars	19083,771 cars
19063,350 cars	19091,749 cars

John Robinson Coming—Will Soon Be Here.

There is certainly no traveling entertainment in America, perhaps in the world, which presents exhibitions so varied, so attractive and so multitudinous as do the John Robinson Shows. Since the days of Noah a more complete menagerie has never been seen. Traditional, poetic and enchanting scenes never before equalled or witnessed in the gorgeous arena display.

Every act in the monster program is a revelation to the beholder. The finest specimens of horse flesh in the world, the highest naturalist in the circus profession, the champion riders, both male and female, the finest specimens of the cutest ponies in the world the grandest specialties ever exhibited; the funniest clowns on earth are with the John Robinson Shows.

Almost every circus claims to have a show that cannot be duplicated, and an aggregation of performers the like of which can not be brought together, but the fact is that every circus of any consequence has a double force and a double equipment.

There are really two circus troupes which have to travel about. The leapers are liable to injury. A sprained ankle will put one of the best performers out, and there must be a man to take his place. Possibly the substitute will make as great a hit as the regular. Even the performing horses have their substitutes.

It is a fact not generally known that the John Robinson Shows carry two complete large canyons. In case one is destroyed by fire or storm, another must be ready to be put up. When a failure to give a performance entails a loss of from $10,000 to $20,000 for expenses, the matter becomes serious.

The big shows come to Mt. Sterling Friday, August 19.

In Honor of Mrs. Saltzgaber.

Mrs. Pattie Johnson Riley entertained last Thursday afternoon at bridge in honor of Mr. B. G. Saltzgaber, of Indianapolis, Ind., who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Anna R. Tipton. The house was tastefully decorated and the large crowd present thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon.

Still at Large.

Bart and Spunk Creekmur, who are charged with firing the shots that killed Axion Cooper, in Lyon county, have so far evaded the State troops.

Do You Gamble?

Some people do by spending their time and labor and money by housing a crop of hay, oats and other farm produce, and keeping thousands of dollars invested in live stock housed in barns, and gamble with themselves that it will not burn. DO YOU?

Other people place their savings in a home and handsome furniture and then gamble on their luck that it will not burn. DO YOU?

Still others invest thousands in factories, mills, warehouses and other things subject to fire, and think they can, by careful watching, prevent a fire. DO YOU?

To all persons gambling with themselves against loss by fire, wind or tornado, we would suggest you give the matter careful consideration. Can you afford to take chances of losing part or all of your accumulations for a lifetime by gambling on your luck? We think not. See us before it is too late, and do not gamble with yourself.

FOR CONGRESS
A. FLOYD BYRD
Of Clark County

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce

as a candidate for County Court Clerk of Montgomery county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

HON. A. FLOYD BYRD

Made Nominee By Acclamation--Convention Noted For Harmony and Good Feeling.

The Tenth District Democratic Convention was called to order by F. A. Lyon, Sr., of Lee county, Democratic Executive Committee-man from this Congressional District, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and Bro. B. C. Horton lead in prayer.

Hon. R. R. Friend, of Estill county, was then elected Temporary Chairman and when escorted to the Chair made a rousing speech of acceptance.

Hon. C. C. Williams, of Breathitt county, was then elected Temporary Secretary and all Democratic editors as Assistant Secretaries.

The Chair then appointed a Committee on Credentials, Resolutions and Organization.

Senator Jas. B. McCreary was then introduced and made a well received speech in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His reference to Gov. Judson Harmon, of Ohio, as the next President of the United States, created a great deal of enthusiasm.

Congressman Ollie M. James, of the First District, easily the most popular citizen of Kentucky, with the "boys in the trenches," was then introduced and put everybody in a good humor by starting off his speech with the statement that though big in body, he was not as large as Byrd's majority would be over Langley.

He said Moses must have been a Democrat because he said: "Thou shalt not steal." He took Langley to task in strong terms for voting on all measures as Cannon and the Privileged Interests desired, and said the records of his votes would prove it; that he stood against every reform and in favor of every measure calculated to rob the people. He said the word Tariff was derived from an island infested with pirates and thieves, and explained in humorous style the fallacies of the Republican administration's effort to revise the Tariff. His reference to the Ballinger-Pinchot Investigation Committee, of which he is a member, to the effect he still had the question under advisement and had not yet made up his mind and would not do so until September, when they meet in Detroit, brought forth a laugh from the delegates. He said sugar, woolen clothes, farming implements, shoes, and the necessities of life were not on the free list, but that acorns, dried blood, old junk and the like were, including ice to cool off an outraged people. A trust was described as a "lot of rascals, associated together, who are unwilling to trust each other, but want everybody else to trust them."

His strong plea for a direct vote of the people as the only means of selecting U. S. Senators created much enthusiasm, as was his advocacy of the publishing of campaign contributions before, rather than after the election, and his appeal for an income tax. He closed with a beautiful tribute to the American flag and an offer of his services in the fight to be made in November.

For several minutes the delegates cheered and many crowded around the speaker to congratulate him, while the band played patriotic airs.

Mayor W. O. Head, of Louisville, was then introduced and made a short address in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor, promising if elected to give to the State an honest, economical and business-like administration.

He was followed by Congressman Ben Johnson, of the Fourth Congressional District, whose address in his own behalf for the same nomination, was well worded and enthusiastically received. He referred to Langley's broken promises to the people about turnpikes in the mountains, etc., and expressed the belief that the time had come when he could no longer "fool all the people all the time."

The Committee on Organization then reported, recommending Hon. M. M. Redwine, of Elliott county, as Permanent Chairman and

Hon. C. C. Williams, of Breathitt county, as Permanent Secretary, and the report was unanimously adopted. When escorted to the Chair Chairman Redwine accepted the gavel, thanking the delegates in glowing terms for the honor conferred upon him.

The Committee on Resolutions then reported, which report was unanimously adopted and which resolutions are as follows:

The Democrats of the Tenth Congressional District in presenting a candidate for Congress and asking the people to give him their support, declare their adherence to the following views, principles and policies and to them pledge the support of the candidate named by this Convention, who will have the honesty and ability to see that his pledges and those of his party are fulfilled.

1st. We indict the present Republican State Administration with the charge of hypocrisy, inefficiency and extravagance.

2nd. We charge the present National Administration with being weak and vacillating in its character, and with a betrayal of the pledge of tariff revision and promise of other reforms which constituted its plea for the support of the voters before the election.

3rd. We favor an amendment to the Constitution providing for an income tax.

4th. We favor such an amendment to the Federal Constitution as will permit United States Senators to be elected by a direct vote of the people.

5th. We favor retrenchment, economy and reform in all branches and departments of the National government.

6th. We are opposed to a system of tariff that simply robs the consumer under the form of law and we demand a revision of the tariff laws by considering the rights of the people rather than the interests of the PRIVILEGED INTERESTS, so that no one can say of any schedule as did the President who approved and signed the present law when he said, "The Woolen Schedule is Indefensible."

7th. We insist that the Federal Government shall act in accord and harmony with the policy of the State Government in matters that are local to the State or different communities of the State and that when any district or territory in the State has adopted the local option law as a part of its local policy the Federal authorities should refuse to grant a government license to any person to engage in the liquor traffic in such territory, and Congress should by law prohibit inter-state shipments of intoxicating liquors to be made into such territory.

8th. We are in hearty accord with the national aroused and awakening of the public conscience and we assert that absolute fidelity to pledges and promises, with reference to personal matters as well as legislative and political questions, is a quality that should belong to every man who seeks public office.

9th. We condemn despotism whenever, wherever and in whomsoever it appears and confidently submit that no man who believes or whose political sponsors believe that Speaker Cannon is "The Greatest Man in the World" does not deserve to be and cannot be elected to Congress from this District.

10th. We feel that justice to our State demands that Kentucky should receive her full quota of the proceeds from the sale of public domain for the purpose of educating our children. We therefore pledge the nominee of this Convention to the introduction and advocacy of a bill in Congress granting to this State her proportionate share of the funds realized from the sale of public lands for educational purposes.

11th. On other live questions that will come before the next Congress we pledge the candidate presented by this Convention to stand for and to valiantly support:

(a) The proposition to take the appointment of the Rules Committee and all other committees away from the Speaker and lodge it in the House, thereby making the latter a self-governing body.

(b) A revision of the tariff on the principle that custom duties exacted by the United States should be for revenue only and not for the purpose of piling up fortunes for the great vested interests and this revenue thus secured should only be sufficient to administer the government in honesty and economy. All articles which are protected by the tariff and are monopolized and controlled by the trusts should be placed on the free list.

(c) A law providing for the valuation of the physical property of railways and authorizing the Inter-State Commerce Commission to regulate rates according to such physical valuation.

(d) The proposition to authorize the Inter-State Commerce Commission to limit the issuance of stocks and bonds of railways to the actual investment made.

(e) The retention by the Federal Government of the undisposed of mineral deposits and water power sites on public lands belonging to the United States, to be leased and not sold, thereby making them a source of perpetual revenue to the government.

(f) On all questions, the side of the rights of mankind, as against the side of the rights of property; and we pledge that this shall be the test and guide of our candidate's official conduct.

Here the report of the Committee on Credentials was received and adopted unanimously.

On call of the counties for nominations, the county of Breathitt yielded to the county of Clark, and Hon. John M. Stevenson, of Winchester, placed before the Convention the name of A. Floyd Byrd as a suitable man to lead the Democratic hosts to victory in November in the Tenth District. In doing so he paid a beautiful tribute to the honesty, courage and energy of Mr. Byrd, whose nomination was seconded by Hon. Leonidas Redwine, of Breathitt. There being no other nominations Mr. Byrd was declared the unanimous choice of the Convention.

While the Committee appointed to notify Mr. Byrd of his nomination and escort him to the stand, were out, the band played National airs, including "Old Kentucky Home," which caused the delegates to yell themselves hoarse. Mr. Byrd here appeared and accepted the nomination, promising his best effort in the fight before him, expressing Fund For County School House.

This model school house will do much for the cause of education. The Fiscal Court of Jefferson county has given $250, but all the people of the State are asked to contribute. Subscriptions from 50c up are solicited. Checks may be made payable to J. W. Newman, Secretary of State Fair. ing confidence in the ultimate result and pledging an honest endeavor to carry into law, all platform promises.

One delegate created amusement by interrupting the speaker with the statement: "You are all right in Old Breathitt."

Former Congressman Frank Hopkins, of Floyd county, when called upon, pledged his best efforts in the interest of the nominee and took Langley to task for unbroken promises in regard to pensions, census jobs, etc.

He quoted Langley as being opposed to a third term in his race against him four years ago, who quoted George Washington as an authority for the statement; said he believed this district was not a third term district, and that Langley's opinion expressed four years ago, that no one should be elected to the third term, will be endorsed this fall by his retirement from public office. His story comparing Langley's greed for office, to the half grown boy who so strenuously objected to being weaned, was especially applicable.

Motion to adjourn was then unanimously adopted and the delegates retired with the best of feeling and harmony, never failing.

A. FLOYD BYRD.

The above is an excellent likeness of Hon. A. Floyd Byrd, the standard-bearer of the Democratic party for Congress in this the Tenth Congressional District.

Mr. Byrd is a native of Wolfe county, is forty-six years of age, was educated in the public schools of that county and in 1891 graduated at the Louisville Law School and began the active practice of his profession. In 1894 he was elected School Superintendent of Wolfe county and served in that capacity four years. In the fall of 1897 he was elected Commonwealth's Attorney of the Twenty-third Judicial District and discharged the duties of that office for six years. He now lives in Winchester and enjoys a lucrative practice.

No man is better or more favorably known in this district than he; he has successfully practiced his profession in every county in it; has a wide relationship in many of the counties comprising it, and is regarded by all who know him as an honest, capable and courageous man. In the discharge of official duty he has been put to the test and was not found wanting. In fact, his reputation as a lawyer and fearless official is state-wide. Being a fine campaigner and an indefatigable worker, he promises his friends to make things lively from now until November, confident that the time for the redemption of the Tenth District is at hand.

MISS THE LIGHT AND NOISE

Peculiar How Some People, Used to Bustle, Are Unhappy Amid Quiet Surroundings.

The necessity which some people feel for noisy surroundings was mentioned by a famous specialist in giving a medical explanation of the case of little Horace Collins, the heroic messenger boy. The lad, although able to gratify every wish as the guest of Lord Lansdowne, at Howood house, has a mastering longing for the bustle and light of the London streets.

"It is a very clear case of nostalgia," said the doctor. "A person suffering like that has lost two everyday friends, as it were—noise and light. It is entirely due to the nerves. Our nervous system gets into a pronounced groove in accordance with the everyday condition under which we live. A sudden change in living throws the nervous system out of gear. Both light and noise are nervous stimuli to people who live amid noise and light. Take away the comradeship of noise and light and the nervous system loses two stimulants necessary to its well-being and suffers in consequence."

"With the boy Collins the fact that he does not see policemen troubles him, because policemen to him have become an important part of the natural scheme of things."

"A very similar case occurred with a London housekeeper of mine. She was sent away to the country, and simply couldn't endure to live there. She missed the companionship of noise so much that she had to be brought back to town again quickly, for her health was beginning to suffer."—London Mail.

IDEA OF PERPETUAL MOTION

Woman's Act About as Close as Any—One Has Yet Succeeded in Attaining.

Jimmy had arrived at the age when various mighty questions were burning to be answered. He had just put one concerning perpetual motion to his father. "No," said his father, "nobody has ever discovered perpetual motion yet." But Jimmy was not quite satisfied.

"What is perpetual motion like, papa?" he asked next.

His father thought a moment.

"Why, it's pretty hard to say, Jimmy," he replied, "but it's something that keeps going and going forever. Here is an illustration: I once saw a woman on a train who had put on her gloves. She then tried to button her right-hand glove, but she found that she must take off her left-hand glove to do so. She took it off and buttoned the right-hand glove. Then she saw that in order to button her left-hand glove she must take off her right-hand glove—which she did. Then she put on her left-hand glove, buttoned it, and put on the right-hand one again. But she couldn't button her right-hand glove with her left-hand glove on, so she took off—That Jimmy," he said, after a pause for breath, "is what perpetual motion would be like if you could get it."—Youth's Companion.

Health on One Meal a Day.

During a visit to the south of England a gentleman recently met with a person who related a unique and most interesting experience in dietetics. It was that for the last three years he had lived on one meal a day, and that meal was composed chiefly of apples. Further astonishment was evoked by his reply to a question as to what he drank, when he stated that the juice of the apples supplied him with all the moisture or drink he needed; this, he claimed, was of the purest kind, being in reality water distilled by nature, and flavored with the pleasant aroma of the apple. He partook of his one meal about three o'clock in the afternoon, eating what he felt satisfied him, the meal occupying him from 20 minutes to 30 minutes. He looked the picture of healthful manhood, and was engaged daily in literary work.

A Perturbed Philadelphian.

Just as the conductor of a trolley car on Walnut street was pushing the lever that helps to hermetically seal the door the other day an energetic young woman made a bound for the fast disappearing step. She missed it, the car rolled on and the energetic young woman found herself in a heap in the street.

A young man whose boast is that he is always "on the job" in such emergencies, rushed to the fair one's assistance and helped her to pick herself up.

"Hurt yourself?" he asked, solicitously.

The young woman breathed hard, removed her hat from her left ear, and rattled off in one breath: "None of your business. Beg your pardon. Thank you."—Philadelphia Times.

Think Pleasant Thoughts.

When you are dropping off to sleep try to think of something pleasant and don't screw up your countenance and draw down the corners of your mouth, for both these habits help to bring wrinkles.

But really one needs to think pleasant thoughts in the day time, too, says Home Chat.

Pleasant thoughts bring a pleasant expression to the face, which, as the years go on, becomes permanent.

The people you meet who have pleasant expressions are the ones who have never allowed hard or unkind or discontented thoughts to find a resting place in their minds.

Our Willie's The Candy.

To Mr. William C. Gillispie is given the honor of having the most beautiful as well as the most expensive party ever given at Olympian Springs. This is the expressive of one and all, since everyone on the place accepted Mr. Gillispie's invitation to be present at "Black Sulphur" on last Wednesday night. The ladies decorated the surrounding trees with many Japanese lanterns and hung the covered spring with quantities of white and pink crepe paper. Fireworks made the scene more spectacular. The road to this delicious spring was made gay with lanterns, and Mr. Robertson made the occasion more enjoyable by telling some splendid Negro stories in his fine style. The waiters of the hotel served an elaborate collation for the guests, who numbered nearly one hundred. A rising vote of thanks was sung and yelled to the popular host.

This party will long be remembered as the prettiest and most elaborate ever given for so large an assembly.—Mary Darby Fitzhugh in Lexington Leader.

Great Cigar Smokers.

There have been many devotees of the cold cigar. Last was one, Misses says that the abbe could not play the piano unless he had a cigar in his mouth. But he did not light it or smoke it; he used to eat it. He would sit down to the instrument with a big cigar between his teeth and keep munching it all the time he played. When the cigar was eaten up the performance was closed.

Abruzzi and Miss Elkins May Marry.

A special from Rome to the Petite Republique says the hostility of the royal family to the marriage of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins has been withdrawn and that an official announcement of their engagement will be made shortly.

Miss Elkins' mother has been in Europe for several months. Lately they have been staying at Toblach, Austria, and recent reports have it that the Duke of the Abruzzi, who is director general of the arsenal at Venice, has made many motor trips from his headquarters to the Austrian retreat of Miss Elkins.

Scarcity of Humor.

Pooling Campaign Starts in Fayette.

The Burley Tobacco Society's campaign for pooling the 1910 crop in Fayette county was actively opened Saturday when a battalion of canvassers, armed with copies of the pooling pledge and a book for recording the acreage, both pooled and unpooled, made a house-to-house canvass in every precinct. The canvassers have each been assigned to a certain precinct and are instructed to call upon every tobacco grower, whether he is a landlord or tenant, and ascertain the exact number of acres he has planted in tobacco this year.

After the acreage has been taken the pooling pledge will be submitted and the canvassers will make every effort to have the grower sign it for his entire crop if possible, or at least a portion of the crop he has in cultivation. The canvassers will at the end of their campaign make their report to Secretary J. D. Clark, of the Fayette board of control, and these reports will be compiled in a convenient shape to be filed at the society's headquarters.

A similar campaign, it is understood, will be conducted in every county of the Burley tobacco district, and the strongest efforts which they have ever made will be employed by the society to make a successful pool this year. In most of the counties the campaign has, or will be, opened with public speaking in behalf of the pool, but on account of the opening of the fair this week the speaking program in Fayette county was abandoned.

While Fayette county has never had as strong a pool as many other counties the canvass has been so thoroughly organized this year that it is believed by the board of control that a larger acreage than ever before will be signed up.

How to Prevent Typhoid.

The Health Department feels it its duty to call the earliest attention of our citizens to the prevention of typhoid fever. Typhoid fever is probably the most preventable of all diseases. It is now definitely known that the disease is contracted only in the discharge from the bowels and kidneys of those with this disease, and that it is necessary for persons to avoid some such discharges or to avoid persons by whom in some way a contact with this disease. They usually gain entrance to the system through infected water from wells or cisterns or polluted streams. There can be no doubt that in the spread of typhoid fever, milk plays a part only second in importance to that of drinking water. A very great number of epidemics have been traced beyond a possibility of dispute to milk coming from farms where cases of the disease have occurred. The contamination is brought about by the hands of the milkers or other handlers, who may be assisting in nursing or by the addition of infected water or through washing pails, cans and other vessels in such water.

A really clean milk supply in any city would mean the prevention of nearly half the deaths that occur among children under two years of age. Out of 194 typhoid epidemics studied by Koser 148 (including hundreds of cases and scores of deaths) were caused by dirty infected milk. Every endeavor should be made to keep the flies from a typhoid patient because the infection can be carried by them and deposited on the food and utensils in unobserved kitchens and dining rooms. The germs may be carried on the hands of careless attendants or on soiled clothing.

Based upon the teachings of the foregoing facts the following rules have been prepared with care for the guidance of all persons interested in their own and public health:

1. When it is known or suspected that a person has typhoid fever, he should be placed in a large, well ventilated room, with the windows and doors well screened, and such preparation should be made from the first day for the thorough and systematic disinfection of all discharges from the bowels and kidneys as will protect other members of the family, the attendants and the community.
2. A solution of chloride of lime, eight ounces to the gallon of water, should be provided in quantity, and a quart of this should be put in the bedpan or vessel each time it receives the discharges, and should be well stirred and allowed to stand in the vessel at least an hour before it is buried. An equivalent solution of creolin, or a thick white-wash made from the fresh quicklime, may be used in the same way when the chloride of lime cannot be obtained, but with these at least two hours will be required to complete the disinfection.

3. Soiled bed or body linen should remain in the chloride of lime solution for an hour, and may then be safely put in the family wash. Soiled paper or clothes used about the patient should be immediately burned. Attendants should wash the hands frequently. No one should partake of any food which has stood in the sick room. All of these precautions should be continued until the recovery is complete and until diarrhoea has ceased.

4. Typhoid fever is not contagious in the sense commonly understood, and if the precautions above indicated are faithfully and intelligently carried out, a case may be treated in any family or community with perfect safety. If others have the disease, it will be because they were infected from the same source as the patient, or contracted it elsewhere. The same precautions should be observed in dysentery and all other diarrhoeal diseases, including summer complaint in children.

All well water and unfiltered water should be looked upon as suspicious and should always be boiled before it is drunk.

The windows and doors of all dwelling houses and especially of the kitchen and dining room should be well screened and flies actually kept out. Unless this is done a careless management case of typhoid fever or other diarrhoeal disease, even a mile or more away, may be a source of danger on account of flies.

For One Day Only.

While passing through Louisville several days ago, Ward Headley, of Princeton, who has been speaking for the Burley pool, confirmed the report that the 1909 pool would be offered for sale on August 15, the price to be fixed between now and then, and to stand for one day only. Mr. Headley said:

"The Burley Society has 129,000,000 pounds of tobacco on hand. The samples are now ready for the market. President Charles LeBaron will put a price upon this tobacco and offer it for sale on August 15. This price will hold good for one day only. The executive board will then decide what price shall be obtained in the future. All buyers of Burley tobacco will be notified of this action and given a chance. The price offered on that day will likely be changed after August 15."

"The present crop conditions are very uncertain. The fall-off in acreage is not so bad as the inferior quality of the growing crop. The most favorable conditions in the future will not be sufficient to produce more than 50 per cent. of an average crop, in quantity or quality."

"The Burley Tobacco Society is very much elated over the prospects of a good sale of tobacco on hand. A red-hot campaign will be conducted from now until November 1, and we expect to pool more tobacco than ever before in the history of the tobacco light in this State."

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked nutrition, was worn-out and all run-down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitay, Mossport, Conn.

Gasoline-Electric Cars Supplant Steam Trains.

Some of the more congested districts along the Southern Railway will be relieved by gasoline electric cars which will be operated in place of old steam trains. During the month the steam passenger service in the Greenville territory will be replaced with the regular gas electric motor-car service.

Some time ago the Southern Railway Company experimented with the new gas-electric car produced by the General Electric Company and this experiment has proven so successful that a number of the cars will be ordered for short line service.

The gas-electric car is virtually a power station and an electric car in one with a space set aside for baggage. In the front end is located a powerful gasoline engine which drives an electric generator. The electricity generated in this way is used to drive the electric motors beneath the car. The car is operated with a simple controller handled with all the ease and convenience of the common street car. It can be stopped, slowed down, accelerated or reversed without starting and stopping the engine. A car of this type is capable of making a large number of short stops and still maintaining its schedule. The new cars will carry 50 passengers and their baggage at a speed of 40 miles an hour.

Locating Breaks in Telegraph Wires.

When a telegraph wire is broken or damaged, say, several hundred miles away, how does the operator, sitting in his office, know exactly where the accident occurred?

The explanation is simple. It requires, as every one knows, considerable force to send electricity through a wire. The longer the wire, the greater, of course, must be the force required. This force of resistance is measured in units, called by electricians "ohms." Let us suppose that a wire between a New York office and a point 200 miles away has broken somewhere. The telegrapher knows that when the wire was intact there was required enough force to overcome, say 200 ohms to produce a current, or 14 ohms per mile. He now finds that he can send current with a force required for only 700 ohms. Dividing 700 by 14, he finds that the break in the wire is 50 miles from his end.

Partridges Scarce This Year.

According to those who claim to know, the quail crop this year will be the smallest in many years, unless the quail perform the unusual feat they did last year, and hatch a second brood. Owing to the late cold spring, the quail were something like six weeks later in hatching this year, and when the heavy rains began something over a month ago the young quail were in a critical period. They were not large enough to care for themselves, but the number was so great that the mother could care for only part of her brood, and as a result thousands were drowned. The first hatch last season perished in a similar manner; however, many remained and hatched a second time. The sportsmen trust they will attempt double duty again this year.

It is also claimed that the turkey crop this year will be short under almost the same conditions. The fatality among young turkeys the past six weeks has been something awful. Rabbits are about the only kind of game which can be said to be plentiful anywhere at present.

How a Circus Helps Business With Local Stores.

That it does local merchants some good to have a big circus like the John Robinson Shows to come to town is easily evidenced by the large contracts made by local dealers. It takes money to run a great show, and it takes a vast amount of material to feed the employees and animals.

Circus people live well, and only the best of everything is used in the commissary department. That a big show leaves a liberal lump of money in a city at times is evident from the contracts made here. To a local coffee firm the mammoth order of 1000 pounds was given. From an equally well known grocery house $500 worth of groceries was contracted. Two hundred and fifty pairs of shoes were added to the commissary wagon, three carcasses of beef came from a local butcher, as well as 800 pounds of animal meat. An order of $225 alone went to one butcher. Several hundred loaves of bread feed the hungry maws of the circus people daily, and these, too, come from local dealers. Seventy-five quarts of milk from the dairies. Eight tons of hay, one hundred and fifty bushels of oats, two tons of straw, and a host of other necessities were purchased in this city. All told nearly $3000 will be left here as a result of the advent of the John Robinson Shows. Eight hundred dollars per day in railroad fares is paid by the circus people. One of the business men in connection with the show is Peter Ross, the only registered steward in the circus business, who has charge of the feeding of the multitude as well as the purchasing for the hundreds of hungry mouths. The date the big shows will appear in Mt. Sterling is Friday, August 19th.

TWO ANECDOTES OF BEECHER

Liberty of the Great Preacher Well Exemplified by Friend Who Knew Him.

Two stories of Henry Ward Beecher are told in the Christian Work, by Rev. Frederick Lynch, pastor of the First Congregational church, in his regular department, "The Optimist."

Mr. Beecher had been addressing an association of Congregational ministers somewhere in New York state, and when he had finished his address he said he would be glad to answer any questions if any of the whole congregation had anything that perplexed them. Immediately, a young clergyman arose and said, "Mr. Beecher, we have in our little church at a very estimable man, but the moment I begin preaching he falls asleep and snore, so he disturbs the whole congregation and absolutely spoils the effect of the sermon. But he is the only rich man we have, and he is the main support of the church, and we dare not say anything to him for fear we might offend him. Now, what would you do in such a case as that?" Mr. Beecher admitted it was a puzzling situation, and then he said: "We get around it in Plymouth church in this way: I give my sermon orders to keep close watch of the congregation, and the moment he sees any man asleep to go right up and slap me on the back."

The other story is of the same occasion. Another minister arose and said: "Mr. Beecher, my congregation has delegated me to ask this question of you: We have in our congregation one of the purest and most lovable men you ever saw. He is upright, honest, generous, the heartiest supporter of the church we have—the friend of the poor, the beloved of little children, a veritable saint—but he does not believe the doctrine of the Trinity. Now, where do you think he will go after death?" Mr. Beecher was equal to the occasion. Hestitating a moment, he said: "I never dare say where any man will go after death, but wherever that man goes he certainly has my best wishes."

Gold Production.

It is difficult to realize the extent to which the production of gold has increased in recent years. Probably the figures published are at the best only approximate, but the minds of the world should be able to form tolerably accurate estimates, and these are helped to some extent at least by the statements of production at the mines. At all events, there seems to be a pretty general agreement among the authorities that from 1495, the year that Columbus discovered America, to 1856, when Bryan precipitated the discussion of standards, the entire world production of gold had amounted to about $5,775,000,000. That is a sizeable figure, to be sure, but it is claimed that statistics show that in the 14 years beginning with 1856, and down to the close of 1899, the new gold mined amounted to $4,610,000,000, or a trifle over 52 per cent. of the total production in 400 years. It appears reasonable enough to believe that such an enormous increase in the quantity of the world's standard of money must have had some effect upon commodity prices.

A Unique Banquet.

Supperation was mocked and flouted and invited to do its worst by all manner of taunts leveled against the fearsome number 13 at a banquet given in New York recently by the members of the Thirteenth club. The club contains many more than thirteen members, but the dinners sat at tables thirteen to each. Before each plate a red candle burned in a death's head holder, and the member whose candle went out first was supposed to receive it as a sign. As soon as the company was seated a new mirror was broken. The leas were served in the form of a skull repelling in a coffin. The toastmaster used a forearm bone to rap to order. At intervals the diners counted up to thirteen as a chant, the number thirteen being haunted with chords. At the close of the banquet the waiters filled into the room to the music of a funeral march, each waiter bearing aloft a chocolate cake with thirteen candles burning on it and a white skull and crossbones in the center.

Killed by Four Gills of Brandy. An inquest was recently held in Wigan, England, upon four men who had died under very extraordinary circumstances. It appears that the landlord of a hotel had engaged eight men to remove a number of cases of spirit from one cellar to another. For some reason or other he left the men alone and they helped themselves to some overproof brandy.

It is believed that the men drank about four gills each. The result was that four of them died of acute alcoholic poisoning, while the others recovered. A post-mortem examination showed signs of an irritant poison in the stomach.

The medical evidence was to the effect that those who escaped had probably been better fed than the others who died, inasmuch as the effect of alcohol on the stomach is lessened by the presence of food. Taking into consideration the nature and potency of the spirit, it is a wonder that any human being could have survived the ordeal.

IN CHILDISH FANCY

Views of Life from the Infantile Standpoint.

Remarks That Have a Tendency to Seem Irrelevant to Older Persons Really But Evidence of Simple Faith.

The child rears, the child spirit, with its adorable freshness and naivete of outlook, is responsible for a perennial crop of the most interesting and to the normal child everything in this strange, huge world is so wonderful that he has no special sense of remoteness from anything, while it is hard to make unanswerable demands upon his credulity. Simple faith is quite easy to him, because he has to take practically everything on faith, anyway. Much of the mimamed "irreverence" of the little ones arises from this inevitable attitude of mind.

A recent writer, for instance, tells of a little boy who, after thinking much of the omnipresence of the Creator, asked his mother at nightfall: "Mother, God is everything, isn't he? Then he is right in the room with us—right in this little bed with me?" The child with a smile so sweet and affectionate as to be almost angelic, "I'm going to move over and give him lots of room."

The same little fellow upon another occasion astonished his maternal parent by an unexpected but perfectly innocent prayer:

"Please, God, send down to my house another boy just about my size for me to fight with!"

This child, while deeply religious in temperament, also was very passionate. One day his father, shocked at an unwarranted display of temper succeeding a fit of religious fervor, rebuked him.

"My son, I should think you'd be ashamed to be so bad, and you scarcely up from your knees from asking God to make you a better boy."

"Well, I asked him hard enough," was the surprising answer, half choked with sobs, "but if he can't do it alone I'm not going to help him!"

The child's sense of logic and justice was fully developed even in early infancy. He thought, pondered, came to reasonable conclusions, knew no hesitation about expressing his thoughts. When his mother gently reproved him for running about the nursery in a state of nature, he clung with a simplicity quite free from impertinence or irreverence, pointed to a picture of Adam, depicting the Holy Child and Madonna, hanging upon the wall.

He used to do it, he quietly replied.

The older sister of this small philosopher was endowed with an unusually calm and positive nature. Not once the fear, the anxiety or the emotional storms that afflicted her more sensitive brother. While still very young she gave evidence of a genial tendency to "know it all."

"I wonder what we're of, and how we're made," pondered the little boy, after one of his long and silent reveries.

"I don't know what we're made of," little sister responded, briskly. "But I know just how I'm made. First there's little round me that's busy and does things, then over that I wear a skeleton of bones, and then all the flesh, the flesh!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Dolly's Version of It.

Dolly was not quite six when her mother bought a flock of nine Plymouth Rock hens and a rooster, and diligently explained to Dolly that the rooster was the "papa hen" and the rest were all "maama hens." After two or three days of confinement, to accustom them to their coop, they were let out to wander about the yard, and Dolly was set to watch them for a while. The hens stayed together nicely, but the rooster showed a tendency to "go it alone." Dolly chased him back and forth, and when she was tired out of patience, she turned her back for a minute, and when she looked around there were the hens up on the coop, while the rooster was sitting on the ground. Dolly jumped her foot on the side, and screamed, "Come back here! one back to your own family!" The rooster proceeded with perfect equanimity. Dolly watched him for a moment with a look of utter disgust. "He's not a papa hen, he's a papa hen!" she said, very emphatically in an undertone. "That's just like you men, anyway!"—Lippincott's.

Put It Up to Cannon.

People all over the country write to Speaker Cannon about everything. Some of them condemn him and some praise him, but all of them are very "emphatically in an undertone." "That's just like you men, anyway!"—Lippincott's.

WHEN DUTY CALLED

Massachusetts Heroes Prompt in His Answer.

Gallant Deed of Long Ago, Whereby Many Lives Were Saved, Is Recalled—Daniel Collins Graves Deserves Monument.

Thirty-five years ago on May 16 next a man whose sense of danger and love of his fellow men were well developed achieved immortal fame in water-cress insects. His name was Daniel Collins Graves. For something like a year his name was on every tongue in the country. He was the subject of pulpit and platform orators. John Boyle O'Reilly of the Boston Pilot, immortalized him in stirring verse, which included these stanzas:

No song of a soldier's riting doth
To the fading light from Winchester
No song of a time that shook the earth
Will hold the truth at a nation's birth
But one of a brave man, free from
As Sheridan's self or Paul Revere:
Who risked what they risked, free from
And his promise of glorious pay-hits
When heroes are called for, bring the
To this Yankee soldier, send him down
On the stream of time with the Curious
His deed, as the Roman's, was brave
And bold,
And the tale can be as noble a thrill
As ever offered his life for the people's
And then the country seemed to forget, but Graves remained the hero of his section and his death at the age of 70 in his old home village of Williamsburg, brings him once more into the public eye. Mill river, the most eastern branch of the Westfield, flows through the hills about Williamsburg, thus securing an additional head of 24 feet for power purposes. Above a long, narrow valley, thickly dotted with villages, hangs a body of 1,000,000 gallons of water.

Collins Graves had been on an early morning errand on the morning of May 16, 1874, as he drove into his ward a neighbor hurried past shouting: "The dam is giving way!"

Instantly Graves knew that this would mean the loss of his home and the men. He tore the harness from his horse, sprang to its hark back and dashed down the valley on the run shouting the warning. Number 2, which habitates to take to the high ground. Fifteen hundred lives were at stake and Graves' horse was not of the racing type and hesitated with wild limbs to make time against a roaring catarrh with a full of 100 feet to the mile, but he served for all but 150.

A large part of Williamsburg with a hutton factory, woolen mill, saw and grist mill were carried away. A stik mill at Skinner's and 15 houses were swept along. At Haysville the brass works and several dwellings, the entire village of Leeds was destroyed and considerable damage was done at Florence and Northampton. The financial loss was $1,500,000.

The river disaster was a notable event in history. Still the more appalling flood occurred at Johnston, Pa. Daniel Collins Graves deserves a monument to perpetuate the memory of his famous ride.

Broke Down in Maiden Speeches. Of the many members of the British parliament who have broken down in their maiden speeches there is no more distressing instance than that of Gibson Kell in 1887, thus graphically described by Disraeli and Gibson Kell, of whom the Whigs had hopes, roared like a stuck pig, and said nothing. His friends cheered, he stammered, all choked up, then there was a dead and awful pause, and then he said, and that was his performance.

Another breakdown in a maiden speech was by a young thought turned into a success. This was by Lord Ashley, who was a staunch supporter of a bill to grant the services of counsel to prisoners indicted for high treason, but when he rose to make his maiden speech he found himself dejected of language. The house cheered him on encouragement. At last he managed to blurt out: "If Mr. Speaker, sir, I, who now rise to give my opinion on the bill, am so unfortuned that I am unable to express what I intended to say, what must be the condition of that man who without any assistance is pleading for his life and is apprehensive of being deprived of it?" The elaborate speech he had prepared would have been less effective.

False Pretenses. Mrs. Jones—These tradespeople are so unreliable in their representations. You can always find dependence in their advertisements at all.

Mrs. Brown—Poor dear! What's the matter now?

Mrs. Jones—Why, when we bought our automobile we paid an extra sum to have one of Mr. Valentine's shock absorbers attached to the axles.

Mrs. Brown—And did it work?

Mrs. Jones—Did it work? Why when Mr. Jones was out alone the other day the machine slid over a 25 foot embankment and turned turtle.

Poor dear Mr. Jones was shocked terribly. Mr. Valentine's attachment did not work at all, and is perfectly shameful.—Rochester Herald.

Success. Brother Elbow—How am yo' son getting along in his new job as a Pullman port?

Brother Smoot—Fine, ah! Dat boy kin make a few passes and put me out on a puzze, but he bristles off, and it didn't take him two weeks to learn to slam a 'do' in de way dat no body but a railroad man kin slam it. Yassuh, Ole'ence is sho' doin' de best!—Puck.

John Reid has been prancing around for several days over the arrival of a 17-lb. boy. This makes four for John and all boys. Mother and child are doing nicely and the neighbors seem to think John will pull through.

The protracted cold weather and rain of the early months of the season retarded the growth of tobacco plants, and millions of acres of corn, and dwarfed the production of the vast acreage of wheat to a minimum. With just enough rain from now on at the proper time, corn will pull through, but the tobacco crop seems to be almost a failure.

New Postoffice Rules.

Our postmaster formulates the following rules for the benefit of his patrons and that you may know what you may expect: No letters given out until they have been received. If you don't get a letter or a paper on the day you expect it have the postmaster look through all the boxes and down the cellar also. It ought to be there somewhere and he likes to hunt for it just to please you. If your friend don't write rare at the postmaster, He is to blame. If he tells you no, put on a grievous look and say there ought to be some. He is probably hiding your mail for the pleasure of having you call for it. Ask him to look again. If you are buying stamps make him lick them and put them on, that's his business.

Gladiators for Elks at Frankfort.

The Frankfort Elks are making every preparation possible to insure the success of the Elks' State Reunion Association, which will meet there August 16, 17 and 18, and the various committees that have been working for several weeks have about completed details of the plan for entertaining the visitors.

A letter has been received from Grand Exalted Ruler August Hermann, of Cincinnati, accepting an invitation to be present, and Past Grand Exalted Ruler John Galvin, of Cincinnati, and R. W. Brown, of Louisville, will also be present.

The Frankfort Elks' building will be handsomely decorated with flags and the Elks' colors, and a number of the stores will also decorate in honor of the occasion. The three days' meeting will include the business meeting of the association, to which the delegates alone will be admitted; a trip up the Kentucky river on the steamer Oriole, a reception at the Hotel, the beautiful country home of E. H. Taylor, Jr., and a ball at the Capitol Hotel. The Frankfort Elks will hold an informal reception at the Elks' building all the time the visitors are there, and the glad hand will be extended to all Elks and their wives, mothers, sisters, and daughters.

As She Understood It.
Small Margie while at church heard the choir sing "Rock of Ages, Clief for Me." Upon her return home she was heard singing, very seriously, "Rock the babies, keef for me."

Jail Breakers in Laurel Captured.

At London, Ky., Francis Gilreath and Charles Walker, boy desperadoes, who overpowered Deputy Jailer Evans and escaped last Friday night, were overtaken, surrounded and captured late Sunday night near Woodbine. A large posse of men and bloodhounds had been in pursuit for two days and nights.

After traveling a short distance from London Friday night they stole two horses to aid them in making their escape. On the same night they robbed the Farrior postoffice to get the money to get away. A man named Wade caused their capture.

A Hero In Hard Luck.

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission ought to do something for Francis Maher, of New York. Maher saved a man from drowning the other day and the heroic act cost him $100 in lawful money. Maher was standing at the water front, presumably feeling as good as a man who has $100 in his pocket ought to feel. He was at peace with the world and was thinking it is a good world after all when his reflections were disturbed by the excited cry of "man overboard!"

There were at least a hundred men standing around on the docks and they were all confused when they saw a fellow mortal about to drown. Most of them called for help. Others merely protested that they couldn't swim a lick. Maher shrugged off his coat in the meantime and went to the rescue of the drowning man. He brought the man to shore after a mighty struggle.

It is a rather unusual sequel to a story of heroism, but while Maher was helping the wet and limp individual get his breath back and collect his scattered senses some unregenerate bystander picked Maher's pocket. Maher did not discover the loss until after all the excitement was over and the rescued man and about all the dock loafers had disappeared. It was then his thoughts reverted to the wallet in his hip pocket and he decided to take a look at his $100 to see if it had suffered any from contact with the water. But somebody had beaten him to it and it had cost Maher $100 to save a man's life.

Was there ever a more deserving candidate for the bounty of the Carnegie Hero Fund.—Courier Journal.

Eva Tanguay.

James B. Hall of Ashland avenue has sold to Robert Walton Goelet of New York his fleet trotting mare Eva Tanguay, three-years old which made a two-year-old trotting record of 2:15 and went a trial mile in Detroit a few days ago in 2:10. The price paid is said to have been $10,000. Eva Tanguay is by Peter the Great, dam by Guy Wilkes and she is entered in all the futurities and some other important stakes. She has been campaigned in William Andrew's stable and is one of the great performers of the trotting turf.

It is rumored that Glen Beachy has sold Mae Cassidy, another fast three-year-old, with a record of 2:11, but there is no verification of the report from Detroit, or any intimation as to the amount or the name of the purchaser. Mae Cassidy is by Silent Brook, dam Mary Mapes.

Mr. Hall is a brother of Ben W. Hall of this city and is well known here.

Costly Popularity.

France's cruiser Leon Gambetta is named after the famous politician who died on December 31, 1882. In the time of his intense popularity Gambetta had an experience which he was wont to tell against himself. In Paris admirers unyoked his horse and dragged the carriage to his house. Gambetta would narrate this with an air of pride, and he would add, with a smile, "But I never saw my horse again!"

Vitality in Brain Work.

Vital as is the physical side of our serving youth, its true fountain is in our brain. If we maintain activity of its cells it quickens the circulation of the blood, the vital organs, gives light to the eyes, preserves the suppleness of the body, removes to a distance ill-humors, eases, death itself.

Yin in Star's Atmosphere.

Observations of the spectrum of Alpha Scorpis, made at the Cape of Good Hope, have shown a puzzling line that an English astronomer has attributed to tin. If this proves to be correct, it is the first discovery of tin ever made in the atmosphere of a star.

Lowers World's Record.

James R. Magowan's Good Stallion, J. Malcolm Forbes, Wins the 2:17 Trot at Lexington in Splendid Time.

The feature of the program was the 2:17 trot, which was taken in straight heats by the sensational young stallion, J. Malcolm Forbes, owned by James R. Magowan, of Mt. Sterling, in the sensational time of 2:09 and 2:10. This is the fastest heat of the year for a three-year-old and the world's record for two heats by a three-year-old at this time of the year. This is the second time he has had the record for three-year-olds for the season, as he formerly had it by reason of his mile in 2:14 in a race over the Mt. Sterling half-mile track. This was reduced by the sensational Colorado N. to 2:12, and later in the Horseman Futurity to 2:10 by Emily Allen. Thus it will be noticed that both the records for colts and fillies for the season are held by members of the Bingen family.

THE PLUNGER IS SECOND.

Second in each heat was the four-year-old bay colt, The Plunger (2) 2:04, one of the fastest of the get of The Bondsman, and one the best in training at the Lexington track. He trotted a nice race and was close up and finishing strong but never had a chance to defeat the favorite.

The other three starters in the race were distanced. Besides having to step their limit they each suffered from breaks and accidents. Panama Bond, who finished third, broke her cheek on the first turn and each of the others made disastrous breaks. St. Peter went his best mile of the season in 2:14 in this race.

FASTEST IN 2:10 LIST.

J. Malcolm Forbes is possibly the fastest three-year-old to go in the 2:10 list, as he was but three years, one month and one day old when he took his record. The quarters were 3:24, 3:34 and the final one 3:24, the last half being in 1:03. The colt was well driven by Richard Curtis and good judges pronounced him capable of trotting in 2:08 or better.

He would probably command a higher price than any trotter alive today with the possible exception of The Harvester (5) 2:04.—Lexington Herald.

This will be of much interest to Mr. Magowan's friends here to know that he owns next to the greatest if not the greatest trotting horse alive today. Barring accidents, Mr. Magowan feels confident of winning the Kentucky Futurity with his good colt.
